NEW LACES ON MONDAY.

But first let us remind you of remnants of Silk Mulls, Chiffons and Point d'Esprit at half prices. HE new Lace arrivals include just what is most in demand. First, Black Silk Point d'Irelande Laces, 16 and 15 inches wide. Some entirely new designs at 68c., 75c., 80c., 90c., $1.10, $1.15, $1.20, $1.75.

$2.48 and $2.98 a yard. The narrower widths, 3 to 8 inches, in designs to match, 25c. to $1 a yard. BLACK Silk Chantilly Laces, from 9 to 15 inches wide, 40c. to $2.98 a yard. Narrower, to match, 10c. to $1 a yard. Among these will be noticed entirely new designs, some as delicate as Chiffon Lace.

22c. a yard for all those you see marked 25c. Quite a variety of designs, from 2% to 6 inches wide. The buyer requests your appreciation of this Extra Special for Monday. It is saked that you be reminded that HATS are to be much trimmed with lace and the new Chantilly with edge at both sides is the correct Lace, 25c. to 68c. a yard. Point d'Esprit Net Is also used. The new pieces we will show Monday are 54 inches wide and only $1.35 a yard.

DRAPERY NETS are so much in favor again that DRAPERY NETS are so much in favor again that the new arrivals will be heartily welcomed. We will show La Tosca Nets in new style Mesh, 48 inches wide, 48c. to $1.75 a yard. Many entirely new Chantilly Nets from $1 to $5 a yard. More of that bow-knot design has been received, to be offered Monday at the special price of $1.35 a yard. Though usually sold here at $1.50 we c aim that equal quality cannot be obtained elastchere at less than $1.75 a yard. The new $1 Chantilly Nets include some very pretty designs. See the one with crescent-shape figure and polka dots and this one of fioral design and this with blocks of diamond shape—a pleasure to handle these nets. You can feet that they are all silk.

$1.35 is the popular price here. The new nets are really worth nearer $1.50 than $1.35 a yard. See these designs of ferns and cluster dots and this puzzling ring-and-bar pattern. The prettiest designs are very puzzling when giving written descriptions, so perhaps 'tis wiser to ask you to call and see these half descriptions.

SONS OF WILLIAMS.

The Alumni of That College Hold Their An The sons of Williams who compose Williams College Affimni Association for the District held a reunion and banquet last District held a reunion and banquet last evening at the Hotel Normandie. Between thirty and forty sat down to the long table that stretched the length of the main dining room. It was a most delightful occasion. The majority of those who were present had been to college during the administration of President Mark Hopkins, one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of American educators. The memory of that great man and the training they had received from him furnished the key note for the speeches that followed upon the more material part of the evening.

There were young men and other men who were not so young, men who had graduated within a year or two, and men who received their degrees a half century or more ago, but all were young last night, animated by the spirit of the Berkshire hills that surround the old Massachusetts college. Justice Stephen J.

and when the coffee and cigars came on in-troduced the various speakers in a few clever and witty remarks appropriate to each. After each address the group of younger men joined in a college song, and this was by no means the least interesting part of the evening's exercises. The first speaker of the evening was Prof. Kendall of the faculty of Williams College, who had come on to speak for the institution. PROF. KENDALL'S ADDRESS. Prof. Kendall spoke interestingly of the college as it is today, but more especially of the changes that have taken place within the past changes that have taken place within the past few years, that are being made now and that are contemplated. Under the administration of President Carter the resources of the college have developed in a remarkable degree. Prof. Kendall also spoke of the building that has been crected to the memory of that noblest of American teachers. Mark Hopkins. The building has been occupied now for upward of two years and has proved as satisfactory and useful in its sphere as was the life of him to whom it is a memorial.

This year's class is by far the largest freshman class that ever entered Williams, number-ing as it did 112. In all there are 854 students in attendance this year, the highest number in attendance this year, the highest number yet reached.

In discussing the question of athletics from the standpoint of the faculty Prof. Kendall said that there is a moral and intellectual strength in proper athletic training and the speaker made an earnest plea for foot ball as a means of recreation and exercise.

OTHER TOASTS AND RESPONSES.

Dr. Kendall was followed by Mr. Victor Kauffmann of Princeton, who spoke to the toasts, "Our sister colleges." The other toasts were as follows: "Old Williams as she was," a poem by Prof. Zalmon Richards; "Young Williams as she is," Mr. Josiah Newcomb, '92; "Williams in literaturd," Mr. John Savary, '55; "Williams in the learned professions," Mr. H. W Seymour, '55; "Williams in the army and navy," Paymaster General Edwin Stewart, U. S. N., '62; "Williams in public life," Rev. C. C. C. Painter, '58, and "Williams in private life," Rev. Samuel V. Holmes, '83.

Mr. Holmes, who has recently become connected with the First Presbyterian Church as Dr. Sunderland's assistant, is a most interesting speaker and his address closed a delightful evening. OTHER TOASTS AND RESPONSES.

"It is surprising some times to meet a Senator or a Representative who has been here for a number of years to find that he has a meager idea of the true relations of the District government to Congress. This, as might be expected, is almost universal on the part of new members. Of course there is no other municipal government in the United States like the one under which the people of the District live. The District and appropriation committees of the Senate and of the House are practically the board of aldermen and common council of the city. They make all our appropriations for municipal expenses and enact all of our laws, subject, of course, to the action of the two houses. If it was not for the coming of new members of the committees, who have to learn the duties, the legislation that is required would be less em-

It is refreshing to learn that mistakes in delivering invitations happen on the other side of the water just as they do here, but not often as badly as the recent case of an American lady hving in one of the most beautiful of the Roman palaces. She had sent out invitations for a ball, when to her dismay she discovered that a graude dame of the Roman aristocracy had cards out for the same evening. She thereupon promptly sent out notices to all her friends that her ball was postponed. The Easter ball to be given on Easter Mon-The Easter ball to be given on Easter Monday night at Masonic Temple for the benefit of the Homeopathic Hospital is evidently destined to be the event par excellence of the coming holiday season. After the long Lenten lull in the matter of balls and germans the young people will hail such an opportunity with especial delight, while the chaperons will doubtless derive equal pleasure from the congenial social reunion. From present prospects a large contingent of those present will be visitors from out of town, many of the patronesses expecting young ladies to visit them for the Easter holidays. The Yale Glee Club will also attend in a body, which will doubtless add much to the days. The Yale Gled Club will also attend in a body, which will doubtless add much to the festivity of the occasion. The full list of patronesses, all of whom are taking an active interest in the affair, is as follows: Mrs. Morton, Mrs. McKee, Lady Pauncetote, Madame Romero, Mrs. Ekims, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Dolph, Mrs. Gorman, Mrs. Dalzell, Mrs. Outhwaite, Mrs. Farquhar, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Adee, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Pope and Miss Waite.

It is usually useless to try to bolster up weal arguments with strong language. The agitation into which the Paris aperchis lunged the people in the court room when he drew a banana was probably due to a suspicio that he meant to throw the peel on the floor. HER DEAR PICTURE Her photograph was dear to him,

"I were useless to deny it;
She was a star who kicked quite high, If he desired her picture, why, He had to go and buy it.

Patti recently attended a farce comedy in New York. After the performance one of the young women in the company was heard by a young Washington man to remark:

"Did you see Patti at the show?"

"You. I'll bet she enjoyed it."

"Be do I. I tell you she can sing."

"I know she can," was the reply in rather disparaging tonce. "But she can't dence a little bit."

A bicycle paper, referring to the question of pneumatic tires, had this to say: There is one thing which will be necessary this year more than ever before in this country, and that is the stabling of machines in safe places. Pneu matic tires will be very common during the matic tires will be very common during the coming season. Even at as early a date so had Sunday, of the approximate 200 cyclists at Chestnut Hill, Boston, fully 50 per cent of the mounts were pneumatically tired. The ubiquitous small boy, actuated by his usual curious disposition, will make no end of trouble as soon as he finds that the things will his when stuck with pin or knife, and unless he had made a radical change for the better there will be considerable hissing around the towns where race meets are to be held. We would suggest to managers of such meets the propriety of putting stabling facilities in the hands of some responsible party. There are pienty of men who would pay 25 cents to have the twenty-five dollars' worth of anxiety taken from their minds. In almost every city there is a skating rind that would accommodate all the wheels.
